

THE SUNDAY LAW.

order of Mr. Police Superintendent Kennedy was so secretly promulgated on Thursday last, which was so remarkably worded that scarcely any of the captains under his command could interpret the second order, by which this power-grasped attempted to explain his pretended meaning, but it resulted in making "confusion worse confounded," and both of which were properly noticed in Herald of yesterday, have given rise to the excitement and have led to undetermined sions of disgust and indignation—disgust at the arduousness of this "bigger on horseback" and indignation at the thought that President Acton and the Commissioners would retain as Superintendent of Police a creature so thoroughly unfitted for the job, while men possessing more natural qualifications and riper experience were obliged to bow to the will of this self-constituted Mogul. The timely administration of the HERNARD and the fearlessness that the of Commissioners would act on the oft-repeated ations of sensible and law-abiding citizens and re-him, has led the great "J. A. K." to become ashy" unable, and to revoke the unpleasant order was so generally "misunderstood" (7) lightful terms yesterday throughout the entire day revealing and even in the police force itself, which

And when, later in the day, the morning the order of Thursday had been issued, it was generally conceded to have been the action of the HXALE, and the people were what more freely, knowing that there is a possibility of arbitrary measures that the frantic little man, who might attempt to indulge in would be rechecked by the expression of popular opinion.

Most arbitrary mandates or Superintendents had had the effect of arousing the just indignation of many of the most peacefully inclined and law-abiding citizens of Brooklyn, who at once resorted to a public meeting in order to give expression to their sentiments on the subject. Arrangements have been made and a call issued, calling upon the citizens of various wards to organize themselves without delay for the purpose of electing delegates to attend an indignation meeting, which will be held on Monday, May 23, at two o'clock. A tremendous excitement prevails among the several or transgression to which the others equally apply, it is no doubt that the call, if not interrupted, will meet with a prompt response from them and people generally. The Jews are particularly eager over the subject so far as relates to their observance of the Sunday, and exclaim that "it is all up with 'em in this country, unless that man Kennedy beaved immediately."
